

Note: “Death On A Factory Farm” premiered on HBO in March 2009.
(Check HBO.com for dates and times.)

This documentary is now also available for purchase from Amazon.com.

HBO’s “DEATH ON A FACTORY FARM” details the Humane Farming Association’s (HFA) landmark investigation into the mistreatment of animals at the notorious Wiles Farm hog factory in Ohio.

(Check hbo.com for details.)

Directors Tom Simon and Sarah Teale (HBO’s DEALING DOGS) tell the story of an HFA investigator who goes undercover at the hog farm in order to bring the abuses to light. The evidence HFA gathers leads to a rare prosecution and trial for animal cruelty – and a verdict that surprises nearly everyone.

We encourage you to tune in to HBO to watch “DEATH ON A FACTORY FARM” – and spread the word to your family and friends as well. (The documentary is now also available for purchase from Amazon.com.) It’s a great opportunity for the general public to see what happens on factory farms throughout the nation and will undoubtedly encourage people to support the groundbreaking work of the Humane Farming Association.